

I think it's hard to live there. Girls get married very fast and it is very strange. There are no bathrooms and I could not live there. The richest person from the village would be very poor in our circles. And I think people were really very close and informal with each other.

I like documentaries and I loved this film, because the people were themselves. And it was very sad to see to see the circumstances how they live. And I was sorry that they cannot do anything to defeat a famous man like Borat. I was sorry for them because Borat cheated them but I think the people were wrong, too. I think they liked that for a year they were the centre of the world.

This film is about a Romanian village where the Americans make a film. The people of the village agree and make a contract. The Americans cheat them and they do not get money.

I did not see the film but I know the story from my classmates. I think the film is sad because Carmen's life is poor, because she lives in a very poor village. I think the village people are not right if they only feel good when they are in a famous film.

I like this film and I don't like this film. I liked it because everyone spoke Romanian but at least the subtitles were in English. And I liked the film because it was a true story. I like documentary films.

I liked this film very much. There were many interesting things in it, for example that relatives kissed each other on the mouth. I was very sorry that the end was not good for the village, they did not get compensation for the harm.

The film is good but very boring. It shows how gypsies live where the famous Borat film was made. And it shows how the gypsies are cheated by the producers. They were used badly and got hardly any money in return.

It was an interesting film. It showed the life of a small gypsy village. It was funny and also educational. I liked the film.

I think it's a great film. I saw Borat and I liked it, too. But I do not understand the angry Romanians. I like the actor (Sasha Baron Cohen) and I love his films. It is not Cohen who is stupid, it's the village people. But this is only my personal opinion.
